The person who has agreed to take the issue in question made the provision that the rate of interest must be four and a half per cent.

Burglars in Walnut Street.

While burglars who helped themselves to victuals and liquor have frequently operated in this town, the police are inclined to believe that they have the first case on record where the marauders amused themselves by playing ping-pong. At least the evidence points that way in a robbery reported to have occurred at the residence of Mrs. P. S. Sandford of 259 Walnut street.

When a servant in the family of the latter visited the house on Thursday to put it in readiness for the Sandfords' return from the mountains, she discovered that the house had been entered and every room ransacked. The burglary was reported to the police, but what has been stolen will not be known until Mrs. Sandford returns home to-day. In the kitchen the servant says she found the ping-pong set ready for play, and the supposition is that the intruders enjoyed a game before their departure.
